

I urge the FCC to order Sinclair Broadcasting to refrain from broadcasting the documentary "Stolen Honor" in these last few days before the presidential election.

Sinclair contributes large amounts of money to the Republican party and would benefit from relaxed media ownership rules. This is clearly an attempt by the company to alter the outcome of the election and curry favor with an administration that has already expressed interest in relaxing ownership rules.

This is a misuse of the public airwaves. At a minimum, they should be required to also air programming critical of President Bush's military service.

Sinclair's actions show why we need to strengthen media ownership rules, not weaken them. They show why the license renewal process needs to involve more than a returned postcard. Thank you.
